New York Stock Market

NEW YORK, July 14.—Operators in stocks were confirmed in their inclination to refrain from dealing, owing to the inconsequent and indecisive movement of the market for several days just. Influences tending to halt the speculative movement were found in the news from the crop regions. Basic canfidence in the profitable outcome of farvests remained strong and underlies the determination with which stocks are held by present owners.

Such incidents as to-day's panic among the bears in wheat are sufficient, however, to deter speculators from committing themselves unduly, with a period to face during which crop scares are not impossible. The fright in the wheat market had as a basis the reports of rains in the winter wheat region, which might predudice the early delivery of the crop being harvested, and so crowd the shorts in July, which was the option in which the flurry centred.

In contrast with the rainy weather in the winter wheat section nature of the drought in Texas, which gave concern to consumers of cotton. In the corn market, however, the good crop news served to force the price lower. The St. Louis and San Francisco stocks were getting a belated benefit also from the placing of the company's bonds with a French syndicate.

Wabash preferred was conspicuously strong again, but all the news concerning the stock consisted in mysterious allusions to favorable developments, which remained vaguely defined.

ments, which certained vaguely defined.

Steel trade advices were highly favorable, and an attempt was made to use the sudden departure of J. P. Morgan from England for New York as a presage of favorable developments at the coming quarterly meeting of the United States Steel directors, to be held on the last Tuesday of the month. Copper news was less satisfactory, prices of the metal being reduced again at the New York Metal Exchange, and an early fall in London being followed by a recovery, without however, rallying the copper industrials in the London stock market. A commentary on the character of the market was found in the varying action of Virginia-Carolina Chemical, which receded again, following yesterday's resumption of dividends after a six-year interval, and Atchison, which held firm, although the directors reached no decision on the dividend, as speculative rumor had stated they might.
